

- Like the Hungarian Croats, there are few Hungarian Slovaks
 - Around eighteen thousand (2001 census)
- Very dispersed around the north and Crişana (both Hungary and Romania)
 - Mostly live in insular, rural communities
- Cultural and economic centre is Békéscsaba
 - This is despite the fact that many Slovaks live in the north and not the southeast
 - Slovaks migrated to Békéscsaba, and from there to other villages nearby
- Disastrously, most don't speak Slovak anymore
